W: Hello, students! I'm Ms. Smith, director of the school media center. As some of you already know, a student's online ID got stolen and misused last week. So, I'd like to remind you of one thing about the use of school computers. When you check your e-mail or use social network services using the school computers, be sure to log out before you leave. If you forget to log out, someone else can access your data on websites or, even worse, they can steal your personal information. Protect your privacy online, and the first step is to click the log-out button.

W: Changes to your desk? Tell me more.

M: I decorated my desk with some plants and photos of my family.

W: But aren't they a bit distracting when you have to focus on your work?

M: I don't think so. Actually, I feel they bring my stress level down.

다음 표를 보면서 대화를 듣고, 두 사람이 선택할 커튼을 고르시오.

M: Hey, honey, what are you doing?

W: I'm browsing the home interiors brochure. We need to buy curtains for the windows in Jenny's new room.

M: I think so, too. Let's choose together. [Pause] What color do you think would be good?

W: Well, I don't think gray would be a good match with the wallpaper in her room.

M: I agree. Hmm.... Isn't spending more than 100 dollars on curtains a little too much?

W: Absolutely. Expensive things aren't always better.

M: Then we have three choices left. What about the patterns?

W: I think natural patterns such as flowers or stars will be good.

M: You're right. And, as for fabric, cotton is easier to wash.

W: Yes, indeed. Here is a model that satisfies all our needs. Let's buy this one.

M: Okay.

다음을 듣고, 물음에 답하십시오.

M: Hello, parents! I'm John Brown, a professor of mathematics at Pacific University. Today, I'd like to give you some tips to help your children learn math in a fun way. First, use the things around you. You can give them a handful of tiny things like beans and let them count. You can also ask them to compare the numbers of pictures on the walls in each room of your house. Second, play board games with your kids. Board games with two dice instead of one can be a good way to learn basic addition. Third, make math an enjoyable daily activity in real life. For example, at the grocery store, ask your kids how many apples they could buy with ten dollars. With this kind of activity, they can learn how to apply basic math to real life. By following these three tips, you can help your children enjoy learning math early in their lives.
